Task 2: While your access clearance has not been secured yet (dechipered meaning: our website for registration isn't quite ready!), please plan to join us for Top Secret sessions such as:

- Our Thursday lunch speaker, Gordon Weinberger started his company, Gordon's Pies, at age 28, in Londonderry, NH. With his grandmother's great pie recipe, and two blue ribbons from the county fair pie contest, Gordon pursued his dream and soon found himself with a multimillion-dollar, national brand carried by more than 1000 Wal-Mart Supercenters across America. In time he was a self-made millionaire — and he had transformed his pie business from a roadside operation to a national, multi-million dollar corporation that he eventually sold to Mrs. Smiths' bakeries!

Today, Gordon is the mastermind and creator of the Infinite Persistence™ Life Brand, a concept born of his experiences and his profound understanding of the power of “never giving up, no matter what”. By exploring the power of a few simple ideas he discovered on his roller-coaster ride to success, Weinberger relates these concepts back to his own lessons and shows by his own example how Infinite Persistence can work to change lives.

- Special Agent Terry Everson of Student Loan Xpress returns to present “Project Management Principles”. A popular session at the 2006 Conference, this session will be presented over two break-out sessions, allowing for maximum learning!
- Undercover Agent Carol Stanmore from Keene State College leads a session titled “Are You A Fred?” In this session, Carol will show agents how to harness their passion to transform their life from the ordinary to the extraordinary.
